October 11-13, 2019, Resonate Festival will be held at a private ranch in Camp Verde, Arizona. Attendees can enjoy stunning performances and a variety of music from internationally known artists such as Desert Dwellers, Random Rab, Liquid Bloom, Poranguí, Yaima, Bluetech, ATYYA, Mad Hallelujah, and many more. The holiday weekend will include a celebration of Indigenous Peoples' Day featuring Native Tribal Leaders offering presentations, cultural traditions and drumming under a full moon.

Festivalgoers will have the opportunity to participate in various styles of yoga, inspiring workshops, ecstatic dance, healing arts, and high-vibe entertainment. The festival venue is a gorgeous 72-acre private ranch located at 2025 W Reservation Loop Rd in Camp Verde, about 1.5 hours from Phoenix. This high desert oasis features lush vegetation, vast lawn areas, trees, hammocks, a beautiful gazebo, fountains, sculptures, tipis, fire pits, and plenty of open space for outdoor activities, art installations, and on-site camping.

Food trucks and vendors will be available throughout the 3-day event. Ranch amenities include several structures and comfortable accommodations, RV hookups, a large indoor facility for workshops and presentations, ponds with paddle boating, a sports court, playground, a tree house, stables, horses, miniature ponies, and a petting zoo with pigs, chickens, goats, llamas, and deer.

Resonate Festival is family-friendly and will offer a Kids Village with fun activities for all ages. Kids (11-years old and younger) are free to attend the event and a discounted rate is available for teens (12 to 17-years old). Adults 18+ have the option to purchase a 2 or 3-day pass, which includes parking and tent camping. Single day tickets are also available for Friday, Saturday and Sunday. This unique festival will be alcohol-free, focusing on natural health and wellness. This valuable organization has been featured in AZ Family.com and on Good Evening Arizona.
